AR ON IRELAND RENEWED.

THE TORIES INTRODUCE THE CRIMES BILL IN PARLIAMENT.

Morley Makes a Telling Speech Against Co. ereive Tactics-The Torics will Appeal to LONDON, March 22 .- Mr. William Henry Smith, the Government leader, arose amid cheers in the House of Commons this evening. and moved that the bill for the amendment of the criminal law in Ireland have precedence over all orders of the day. He said Ireland was in a state of disorganization, and the Govern-ment were bound to act under a sense of pub-lic duty, particularly when they found juries in that country intimidated, and notorious eriminals, whose deeds were inimical to the ex-Istence of society, getting off scot free. Mr. Smith said he would refrain from stating the details of the measure, leaving that to the Chief Secretary for Ireland. Referring to the amendment, of which notice was given last night by Mr. John Moriey, rejecting the declaration of urgency for the Government bill. Mr. Smith reminded the House how Mr. Gladstone resisted the adortion of a similar amendment in 1881. The position of the Government now was the same as that of Mr. Gladstone's Government and the same as that of Mr. Gladstone's Government and the same as that of Mr. Gladstone's Government and the same as that of Mr. Gladstone's Government and the same as that of Mr. Gladstone's Government and the same as that of Mr. Gladstone's Government and the same as that of Mr. Gladstone's Government and the same as that of Mr. Gladstone's Government as the same as that of Mr. Gladstone's Government and the same as that of Mr. Gladstone's Government as the same as that of Mr. Gladstone and the same as that of Mr. Gladstone are the same as the same ernment then.

The Speaker said the Government's Land bill would be divided into two parts. One of these would be introduced immediately. The other would be a land purchase bill of wide scope, Both measures would be found to be framed on the principles of honesty and justice. The Speaker, however, thought the Government could not hope that any measure framed on these lines would satisfy the Irish National Longue, which, he said, was the apostolic successor of the Land League, and was the cause of all the disorganization and terrorism pervading Iroland. Mr. Smith said he hoped the House would speedly adopt the Government's measures. If the House did not adopt them the Government would be compelled to ask the opinion of the country to either confirm their policy or relieve them of the responsibilities of government.

Mr. John Morley, in moving the rejection of the motion for urgency, denied absolutely Mr. Smith's assertions as to the lawless condition of Ireland, and demanded that the Government give comparative statistics of crime in Ireland, which, he said, would show that the country had seldom been quieter. The Land Commission had declared that the cause of the combinations among the people was the inability of the tenants to pay excessive rents. It had been shown that Irish landlords combined had been shown that Irish landlords combined habits of extravagance, in emulation of the richer landlords of England, with a system of rack rent. No matter how hard the tenants might strive to meet their rents, this wretched landlord system crushed them. The coercion proposals of the Government appeared to be based upon the idea that the people of Ireland were indelent and dishonest. But those who knew them bads different conception of their character; they believed them to be honest, hardworking, and truthful. He could only regard the bill as a measure designed to enable landlords to exact exorbitant rents, throwing the law on the side of the rich removing all coercive or protective power which the tenants derived from combining, and putting coercion upon the unfortunate tenants.

He was less anxious to secure just treatment for those good and honest working people. [Cheers.] Some landlords practised a plan of campaign of their own, more immornl and more deserving of being called a swindle than was the plan of the tenants.

The wisest policy was remedial legislation, which would destroy the roots of discontent. In 1881, when the Coercion bill was passed, the number of evictions rose enormously. The number of evictions rose enormously. The number of evictions rose enormously. The number of outrages increased from 170 in February, 1881, to 479 in January, 1882, and to 531 in March. Hear, hear.] He doubted whether the excessive penal laws of the eighteenth century did more injury to Ireland than did the agrarian laws of the present century. To ask urgency for placing the law upon the side of the landlord was to shut the door of hope upon the tenant. His deliberate conviction was that there had never been a more wanton, gratultous, and unjustifiable resort to the ever-failing, ever-poisonous remedy of coercion.

Mr. Ballour said the bill had been forced upon the Government because the resear our habits of extravagance, in emulation of the ing, over-poisonous remedy of coercion.

Ar. Ballour said the bill had been forced upon the Government because the present current of crime was aimed at the subversion of the laws. Referring to the land legislation of the late Government. The latiour characterized it as a bunding to the subversion of the late Government.

the laws. Referring to the land legislation of the late Government. Thalfour characterized it as a humiliating failure.

Though neither and smith nor Mr. Balfour gave any explicit statement of the Government's Irish measures to-day, an analysis of their speeches discloses the fact that a definite policy has been decided upon, covering all the legislation for Ireland that the Government will ever consent to propose. The programme will open with the Coercion bill, conjoined with a Tonant's Relief bill, to be introduced in the House of Lords next week. The relief proposals will consist of giving tenants power to stay evictions by declaring their inability to pay full rent, and wiping out the claim by surrender to the Bankruptcy Court. A grand measure for land purchase will follow. This measure is now known to be based upon Mr. Chamberlain's land-bank scheme. If the Government should be defeated at any point in the development of their policy, they will not resign but will appeal to the country. The ernment should be deleated at any point in the development of their policy, they will not resign, but will appeal to the country. The confident tone of the Ministerialists confirms the generally accepted report that Mr. Cham-berlain and Lord Hartington assisted in build-ing the scheme and approve the filmal structure. The House, which was in session all night last night, adjourned at noon to-day, after passing the Civil Service bill, and met again this evening.

The Parnellites are eager to fight at every stage, but they find the Gladstonians rejuctant to support them. Instead of contesting the urgency motion to the utmost extremity, the Gladstonian whips, without consulting the Parnellites, to-night arranged with the Government whips to divide on the Morley amendment on Thursday, thus opening the road to the passage of the Coorcion bill before the Easter recess. The Parnellites are disposed to disregard the whips, and are arranging to continue the struggle independently.

"The situation in Ireland is far too serious to be trifled with by politicians for five or six years. We shall have home rule in two years, with or without coercion. Now we may have coercion, but it will fail even more completely than it has hitherto failed. No amount of coercion can get blood out of a stone, or compelmen who have got no money to pay rent. You are face to face in Ireland with one of the grimest social facts. You cannot evade it, no matter how you may juggle with the situation."

Mr. McIntyre's Railroad Bill-The Tene-ment House Bill Passes the Senate.

ALBANY, March 22.-Mr. McIntyre moved this morning for a reconsideration of his bill. that was passed yesterday, and which allows the cable and elevated roads and other corporations or associations to fix their charters and articles of incorporation after the courts have decided against them. Some of the mem-bers found out what they had voted for when It was too late to change, and they told Mr. Mc-Intyre that if he didn't move to reconsider they would. So Mr. McIntyre moved to reconsider the vote, and explained that his bill was not offered as a cable road bill.

Mr. Kruse asked whether, being a general act, the cable and elevated roads might not take advantage of its provisions. Mr. McIntyre replied that he supposed they

Mr. Kruse asked whether, being a general act, the cable and elevated roads might not take advantage of its provisions.

Mr. McIntyre repiled that he supposed they might, but he had offered it with no such intention. He neglected to explain why the bill was offered or whom it would affect.

Mr. Alneworth, from the Gonandtee on General Law, said that the bill hud been amended at the suggestion of a New York awyor, and as it stood now he supposed it was out rich as it is put the members who voted unwittingly can put themselves on record.

The motion to reconsider went over, and right it is put the members who voted unwittingly can put themselves on record.

The Canal Appropriation bill passed the Assembly by a majority of two to one after Mr. Exwin's amendment reducing the appropriation from $550,000 to $290,000 was detented. The bill was offered in the Senate by Senate Daly, and has passed that body. Its object is to lengthen and widen the locks of the cound. So that a small canal steambent and one or two boats in tow can go from Buffale to New York without uncoupling. At present the cost and delay of uncoupling and coupling at every lock limits the availability of steam power, and so decreases the canalety of the canal.

The Vedder tax bill was debated, but was not passed, as the discussion was not finished. Senator McMillan succeeded in getting Buffalo licenses reduced, and the bill now stands so that nine-tenths of the total revenue is to be raised from New York and Brooklyn. The tax which Senator Vedder wants is in addition to the usual license fee. It taxes all sales of liquor, the money used thereby to go into the State Treasury. The New York and Brooklyn members unanimously opposed the bill, as part of the general plan of the country members to put all State taxation on the big cities. The New York and Brooklyn members therefore seeming the country members to put all State taxation on the big cities. The New York and Brooklyn members tried to have their cities exempted, so that the liquor tax might go into the city instead of the State Treasury, but they falled.

Beritn's Joyons Aspect - Many Illustrious Men Receive Honors from their Ruler-He Thinks He May Live to See Next Year. BERLIN, March 22 .- The nineticth anniversary of Emperor William's birth was ushered in by the pealing of bells in all the churches and the tower of the Town Hall and the sound-ing of a choral. The city is decorated as it over was before. Garlands, flags, laurels, festoons of evergreen, banners, bright drapery and brilliant carpets are hung on every conspicuous spot where ernament can be made to said to the joyous appearance of the town. Conspicuous by the extreme elegance of their decorations are the Royal Academy and the university buildings, and the city residence of the Crown Prince. Frederick William.

The monument of Frederick the Great is covered with wreaths and flowers. Wherever there is a bust or statue of the Emperor in a shop window or other exposed place it is buried n flowers. The people are all out in holiday attire, and the streets are thronged. Early in the day special memorial religious services were held in all the churches and synagogues The children from all the schools in the city went in processions, accompanied by bands of music, to the church services.

The students' procession past the palace was a grand affair. They went in carriages, of which there were several hundred in line, and carried the bright banners of the various school and college societies and associations. They were accompanied by many bands playing music and arrayed in gorgeous mediæval ceded and followed by students on horseback. Passing the paince the bands played the national anthem, "Preussenlied," and "Wacht um Rhein," the students all singing to the music. The Emperor appeared at the window as the procession was moving past and bowed, reprocession was moving past and bowed, remaining there a considerable time. The great crowd in the street gave him an ovation, the multitude cheering itself hourse, and tiring itself out waving bats and handkerchiefs.

All the members of the imperial family and all their princely guests drove in procession to the palace, and personally tendered their congratulations to the Emperor. The procession was cheered by the crowds in the streets.

The municipal procession was preceded by heralds and marshals bearing the town banner, the whole body of the Evangelleal clergy, the chief civil and military authorities, representatives of German science, art, and commerce, the directors of the Gymnasia, and the burgesses and communal officers, in all over 2,000 persons. The procession was accompanied by several bands, which played marches alternately with chorals by trumpeteers. The procession went in state from the Town Hall to attend the commemorative religious service in the Church of St. Nicholas. The clerkymen were all full robed, and the officials wore their uniforms and regalia, when the procession entered the church the organ played a predude. This was followed by the singing of the "Salvum fac Regem" and the chanting of the Ambrosian hymn. The festival sermon was preached by Provost Bruechner.

At noon a royal salute of 101 guns was fired from the Roenigsplatz.

Prince Bismarck and Marshal von Moltke went to pay their congratulations to the Emperor at 1 o'clock. They were enthusiastically cheered all along the route on their way to and from the palace.

An especially striking feature is the picture, 100 yards long by 20 yards wide, in front of the Academy of Arts decicting events in the Emperor's life. Prince Bismarck and Gen. Von Moltke say that they have received a wonderful reward for services of a character as yet unknown to them. All the Secretaries of departments were decorated by the Emperor. In receiving the household deputation, the Emperor said:

"I have reached this age by the grace of God, and, if the Lord helps me and wants me to, I may live to see another year."

Emperor William conferred the decoration of the Grand Cross of the Rod Eagle upon Ministers Von Puttkamer, Lucius, and Von Boeticher; the Grand Cross of the Hohenzollern family order apon Ministers Von Gossler. There are a great many ex-officers of the German army in New York. They are focussed into a number of small clubs, all of which held receptions yesterday, and the number of messages of congratulation sent over the cable yesterday from these different sources kept the operators on the jump.

At the Arion, Liederkrans, Beethoven Maennerchor, and a score of other German singing societies and clubs the old-time "Commerz" was gone through with hearty vigor. The Deutsche Verein, a German club, whose quarters are at 13 West Twenty-fourth street, gave a banquet in honor of the occasion. The German Consul and his staff and many well-known Germans were present. Herr Anton Meyer presided.

One hundred and fifty persons sat down to the table, which groaned under its weight of delicacies, all of a German character. Fings of each State in the German confederation covered the walls, and a German band played all the popular German airs. A long cablegram was sent earlier in the day to the President of the club, who is in Berlin. with instructions to deliver it.

Managor Amberg of the Thalia Theatre had prepared more than a week ago for a performance which should reflect credit on himself and his patrons. Mr. C. De Grimm wrote an epilogue to the play, "Der König's Befehl," which included a long poem reflecting the sentiments which most Germans feel toward the Kaiser. The play itself is a comedy, in which Frederick the Great is the leading character, and a tableau was arranged in the epilogue in which Frederick is represented as returning to earth to congratulate Emperor William on the success which he has attained. An enormous portrait of the reigning monarch appeared in the tableau. The house was crowded, and great applause greeted the tableau. The theatre itself was handsomely decorated with the German and American colors, and a portrait of Emperor William, framed in evergreens, hung from Managor Amberg's private box.

A cablegram which had been sent early in the day by the manager and company to the managers of the German Actors' Fund Society at Berlin was answered yesterday by Graf B, von Hochberg, Franz Betz, and Ludwig Barnay.

He owns his fine residence in Fifty-third street, is married, but has no children.

Some time ago Dr. Frank Abbott, Dean of the College of Dentistry, asked Dr. Roy to come down and deliver a series of lectures on the subject of food assimilation in its relation to dentistry. Dr. Roy assented, and for some time past was hard at work preparing the lectures. At 3 o'clock on Thursday afternoon he told his wife that his patients had all been attended to for the day. Then a Mr. Crocker of 389 Fifth avenue called, and Dr. Roy went down to see him. Not long after this Mrs. Roy went down to see him. Not long after this Mrs. Roy went down to see him. She got part of the way up the kitchen stales when she saw Dr. Roy standing at the railing at the head of the stales. He had one hand on the railing. He wore his long, heavy beaver overcoat, and in his disengaged hand he carried his slik hat.

They waited up for him till midnight, when Mr. Roy reported the case to the police.

The following dry Mrs. Roy discovered that her husband had not taken with him his purse, which contained all his ready money, his watch, nor any extra clothing of any kind. Dave Foutz signed a contract with the Browns on Saturday. The sum he is to receive is $3,000. He says that the report that there was a combination between him. Caruthers, and fludson against President you der Abe was unique. He has not seen or heard from RAILBOAD AND OTHER STARES. You der Abe was untine. He has not seen or heard from Carathers, this winter. As for Hudson, he believes he will play bell this season, but will not sign now, because of the death of his father and severe thisse of his mother. This is understood to reflect the important progress that is being made toward weaving the Fort Worth road into one of the leading systems of the Southwest. Erie was second in point of activity, but it underwent no special change in price. There were moderate dealings in St. Paul and in Lackawanna. The last named was one of the strong features of the day.

Without doubt speculation was curtailed a good deal by the serious impairment of tele-graph communication by last night's storm. The London market did not figure for much so far as this one is concerned, while the foreign

The London market did not figure for much so far as this one is concerned, while the foreign element represented through German houses seemed to devote itself chiefly to celebrating the birthday of the German Emperor. Very little was heard about the Baitimore and Onio matter, but the opinion or belief is beginning to gain ground that enderneath sill of the fruitless and absurd movements that have been made a substantial deal is being developed. It would not be surprising if this should prove to be the case.

There was quite an increase in the volume of dealings in the Unlisted Department of the Exchange. The efforts to depress Cottonseed Oil, Trusts continued and carried the price from 51% to 50%. The closing was 1% F cent. lower than last night, at 50%. There was extensive trading in Lake Erie and Western preferred at 55 to 60, and it closed with a net gain of 1% B cent., at 59%. The Lake Erie and Western Company has just purchased the property of the Indianapolis, Peru and Chicago Railrond, consisting of 182 miles of track between Indianapolis and Michigan City, the extensive terminal facilities at both points and forty miles of side track, together with its equipment, free of all liens. Other noteworthy fransactions were of Chicago and Indiana Coal Railway common at 54%, and Kingston and Pembrike at 37%. The market may have been checked somewhat by the further advance in the nominal rates of sterling, but the bidding up of money at the close had no effect whatever. The closing was steady at a slight general improvement as compared with last night. The noteworthy changes in prices are shown by the following comparison of final sales:

Sterling exchange firmer, owing to a somewhat better demand and smaller offerings of commercial bills. Some drawers advanced their nominal asking rates 'se, F pound, to $4.85 for long bills and $4.85 for demand. The street rate of discount in London to-day was 2\sqrt{F} cent., and most of the foreign bankers look for a reduction in the Bank of England rate on Thursday.

In accordance with the provisions of the Inter-State Commerce law, the trank line Executive Committee decided to-day to discontinue all of its pooling arrangements. The organization of the committee will, however, be kept up for a variety of reasons, but chiefly on account of rates and classification. The adjustment of balances in the several pools was progressed, and other measures taken to close up the business of the pools. The joint committee, including the Western connections of the trunk lines, will also retain its organization. The passenger committee of these roads has not yet agreed upon rates, but expects to by the time the law becomes operative.
